

Explain the appeals to logic, emotion, and reputation Captain Jack Sparrow uses to convince Mr. Tibbs to sail with him. Which one of those appeals (logos, pathos, or ethos) best convinces Mr. Tibbs to agree?

Transcript of the conversation between Captain Jack Sparrow and Mr. Tibbs.

Mr. Tibbs: Now, what's the nature of this venture of yours?

Captain Jack Sparrow: I'm going after the Black Pearl. I know where it's going to be, and I'm gonna take it.

Mr. Tibbs: Jack, it's a fool's errand. You know better than me the tales of the Black Pearl.

Captain Jack Sparrow: That's why I know what Barbossa is up to. All I need is a crew.

Mr. Tibbs: From what I hear of Barbossa, he's not a man to suffer fools, nor strike a bargain with one.

Captain Jack Sparrow: I'd say it's a good thing I'm not a fool.

Mr. Tibbs: Prove me wrong. What makes you think Barbossa will give up his ship to you?

Captain Jack Sparrow: Let's just say it's a matter of leverage.

Mr. Tibbs: The kid?

Captain Jack Sparrow: That is the child of Bootstrap Bill Turner. His only child, savvy?

Mr. Tibbs: Is he, now? "Leverage," says you. "I think I feel a change in the wind," says I. I'll find us a crew. There's bound to be some sailors crazy as you.

Captain Jack Sparrow: One can only hope. Take what you can.

Mr. Tibbs: Give nothing back.
